Okehampton Town Council

Councillor/Employee Protocol

Introduction

Effective working relationships between elected Town Councillors and employees of the Town Council are key if the Town Council is to work effectively. They are also critical in maintaining public confidence in the workings of the Council.

This protocol is intended to guide Members and employees of the Town Council in their relationships with one another. It is not intended to be prescriptive or comprehensive and simply seeks to offer guidance on some of the issues which can arise. It does not in any way replace the Code of Conduct by which Councillors are legally bound. However, the protocol may assist in interpreting what is required under the Code.

Roles and responsibilities

Understanding the different roles and responsibilities of Councillors and employees is key to maintaining good relations.

Town Councillors decide on the priorities for the Town Council, set the budget, represent their constituents (including those who have not voted for them) and collectively make decisions on behalf of the Town Council.

Town Councillors are responsible to the electorate and serve only so long as their term of office lasts. A Town Councillor can only serve for a maximum of 4 years before submitting themselves to the electoral process.

Town Councillors are not individually authorised to initiate/certify financial transactions, or to enter into any contract (written or verbal) on behalf of the Council.

Town Councillors may at times assist the Council by providing services in relation to their knowledge and skills. They should not expect to be paid for offers of assistance and other contractors/offers will still be investigated. Any quotations for paid work will be treated in accordance with Council policy.

Town Councillors are expected to attend meetings of the Council, Committees, Working/ Task & Finish Groups to which they have been nominated and other meeting invitations as accepted, and to have read associated paperwork prior to attendance.

Employees of the Council implement the decisions made by Members. Employees give information and advice to the Council and support Councillors.

Town Council employees are employed and are responsible to the whole Council and not to any individual Councillor. Employees of the Council are managed by the Town Clerk in accordance with Council procedures. The Town Clerk is responsible to the whole Council and for the management of the day to day running of the Council and its services, including contractors appointed to undertake work for the Council.

The Town Clerk and employees' welcome visits by Town Councillors. However, Councillors should be aware that employees may not be in a position to speak with them unless a prior appointment has been made and should wait in reception until invited into the offices.

Reasonable expectations of employees

It is reasonable for a Councillor to expect the Council employees:

- To do their job effectively and efficiently
- To behave in a manner which does not bring the Council into disrepute
- To be helpful, respectful and courteous
- To provide assistance to Members in carrying out their role
- To deal with Members enquiries fairly and efficiently
- To be open and honest with Members
- To work with all Members equally and fairly
- To keep confidentiality where it is proper to do so
- To be sensible about contacting Members at potentially inconvenient times unless in an emergency or otherwise agreed
- To remember that they are employed by the whole Council and not by any individual Member.

Reasonable expectations of Councillors

Employees can reasonably expect the Councillors:

- To accept that the Councils employees are managed by the Town Clerk
- To be helpful, respectful and courteous
- Not to ask employees to breach Council policy or procedure or to act unlawfully
- Not exert, influence or pressure or to request special treatment
- Not to raise concerns about an employee in a public setting and to raise such concerns in an appropriate manner in accordance with Council policy
- To respect that employees have a right to a private life and not contact them outside of their working hours unless in an emergency or otherwise agreed. Contact should be by email or council provided phones, unless in an emergency situation when the Clerk can be contacted by other means.

Specific Issues

Personal relationships

Good working relationships are critical between Members and employees, but close familiarities could prove embarrassing to other Councillors and employees and give rise to potential conflicts of interest. Such close familiarities should therefore be avoided 'wherever possible'.

Giving instructions to employees

Only the Town Clerk can give instructions to employees of the Council and only the Full Council or a properly constituted committee can give instructions to the Town Clerk. Individual Councillors should not therefore attempt to direct the work of employees.

Mayor and Chairmen (Deputy Mayor and Vice-Chairmen)

The Mayor and Chairmen of the Town Council have additional responsibilities. Because of those responsibilities, their relationships with employees may differ from, and be more complex than those of Councillors without those responsibilities, and this is recognised in the expectations they are entitled to have. However, such Councillors must still respect the impartiality of officers, must not ask them to undertake work of a party-political nature, or to do anything which would put them in difficulty in the event of a change in the composition of the authority.

Complaints about employees or services

Town Councillors have a right to criticise the report, advice or action of employees. However, it has to be recognised that employees will find it difficult to answer back to such criticism and therefore any criticism must not be in the form of a personal attack and must be constructive and well founded.

Councillors must avoid undermining public respect for employees and should therefore avoid making any criticism of an employee at a public meeting, in the press or by way of any other public statement. Making such criticisms would be damaging to the public image of the Council. It would also undermine the mutual trust and courtesy which underpins effective working relationships. If a Town Councillor wishes to raise an issue about an employee, they should use any established channels in place or, direct their concerns through the Mayor or Chairman of the Policy & Resources Committee if the concern relates to the Town Clerk, or the Town Clerk if it relates to any other employee.

Information sharing

All Town Councillors have a right to expect to be kept informed about matters on which they may be required to make decisions, or which affect the Town. The Clerk should aim to ensure that all Members are kept fully informed in relation to important issues.

So far as documents and other information held by the Town Council - much of it will be in the public domain and Councillors have the same right as any member of the public to see that information. So, Councillors have the same right as the public to have access to agendas, reports and minutes of meetings which are held in public and have the right to access information given by the Freedom of Information Act. Town Councillors have additional rights to access information as well. Clearly, they are entitled to have access to reports of matters which are to be considered at Council meetings in a private session, unless they relate to staffing matters. In addition, Town Councillors have the right to access any other Town Council information where they can show they have a 'need to know'. Any request to access information should be made to the Town Clerk. If the Town Clerk is uncertain as to whether the Councillor is entitled to access that information, then they should refer the question to the Council for a decision.

The process of gathering information to respond to Members requests can be time consuming and expensive for the Town Council so Members should consider before they make an information request whether they really need the information and should be prepared to discuss with the Town Clerk whether less, more easily obtained information would be sufficient.

Correspondence

Correspondence between Members and employees should not normally be copied to any other party. In particular, when using email, the use of blind copies should be avoided, as should be 'reply to all' as persons unknown could have been blind copied in.

There are exceptions to this general rule. If the original correspondence was copied to other parties then it is legitimate to send a response to those parties. There may also be occasions where the correspondent gives rise to concern for the employee, for example in relation to possible breaches of the Code of Conduct or that the Council may be brought into disrepute by the actions of the Councillor. In such cases it is legitimate for the employee to share correspondence with the Mayor or, where appropriate, the Monitoring Officer at WDBC.

Official correspondence (letter or email) from the Council must be sent out in the name of the Town Clerk, not individual Councillors. Correspondence that creates obligations or gives instructions must not be sent out in the name of a Councillor.
